The King's Illness
Col. Michael Friedsam
Honor to Michigan
Important to Parents

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

ENGLAND IS alarmed by the king's illness, its seriousness revealed only yesterday.

Diagnosed as bronchitis, it is probably a return of the serious illness from which the King escaped so narrowly two years ago. On that occasion bronchial pneumonia developed empiema and septicemia, that, according to physicians, weaken the system permanently, and minimize the power to resist any later attack.

* * *

NEWS OF THE DEATH of Col. Michael Friedsam will grieve hundreds of merchants throughout the nation that knew and respected the head of B. Altman & Co. of New York City. Col. Friedsam was a good citizen, active in the improvement of New York, his native city, valuable in public service during the war.

But his greatest public service was his contributing to the most important of modern problems, which is DISTRIBUTION. Many hundreds of millions' worth of the world's products reached the consumer through him.

CITIZENS OF MICHIGAN honor their state by refusing, in overwhelming majority, to restore the death penalty in their state.

That penalty, abolished in Michigan 84 years ago, is an imitation by the state of the murderer's tactics. The installation of an electric chair in the state prison at Jackson, would have been a blot upon the state, a backward step for a great commonwealth that has not known capital punishment for 100 years

IT IS IMPORTANT for parents to know that the dreaded poliomyletis, or infantile paralysis, attacks children mainly through the nose. The germ infects water and can be taken through the nose passages by children swimming in unclean water. So says Dr. Weyer of the Willard Parker laboratories.

The germ is probably introduced into the nose most often by the fingers. Children should be taught from infancy to keep their hands away from mouths and noses. Influenza, "colds," a dozen infections start after being planted on the mucous membrane.

A Chinese proverb forbids you to touch your nose or mouth, "except with your elbow." Children and adults should remember that.

NEW YORK considers altering the building code governing construction of elevators. Builders want to increase speed and operate two cars in one shaft. It should be possible to operate several elevators in one shaft, to save space in high buildings.

Forty years ago in the London financial district one building had an endless chain elevator. Too slow for the United States.

QUAKERS have amended their "rule of discipline" for the first time in 38 years. Quaker girls and women may add "frills" and lace to the plain Quaker garb.

It is decided that mutton-leg sleeves for girls, suits of plain black with no collars or cuffs for men, are not necessary to good morals here or happiness hereafter.

Many eligible Americans are tired of "frills" cut off above the

LONGWORTH ILL OF PNEUMONIA, WIFE CALLED

Physicians Report Stricken House Speaker Passed "Good Night."

EVERY PRECAUTION TAKEN

One of Three Attending Doctors Remains with Patient Throughout Night.

By The Associated Press.

AIKEN, S. C., April 8—Nicholas Longworth, for six years speaker of the house, lay seriously ill here today from pneumonia. Mrs. Longworth was at his bedside.

The former Alice Roosevelt arrived here to be with her husband this morning. She was summoned last night after physicians attending Longworth revealed a heavy cold he had had for 10 days developed into pneumonia Monday night.

While saying their patient was seriously ill, Longworth's physicians would not make public details of his illness.

Dr. R. H. Wilds of Aiken said there had been no change in Longworth's condition since late yesterday, but added that the patient had a "good night."

The physician and his associates on the case, Dr. Thomas G. Brooks of Aiken and Dr. V. P. Sidenstricker of Augusta, conferred with Mrs. Longworth soon after her arrival.

Although they had said there would be an official bulletin on Longworth's condition after the conference, none was issued immediately.

Physician Keeps Watch

Dr. Thomas G. Brooks of Aiken remained with Longworth throughout the night.

Three physicians are attending the speaker at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Curtis, where he was a guest when he was stricken.

They described his illness as severe but not necessarily critical. They said they did not expect a change before tomorrow.

An oxygen tank was used yesterday in treating the patient. This measure was taken merely as "a precaution to prevent a crisis," the physicians explained.

Ill Several Days

Speaker Longworth had been enjoying his annual spring visit to the Curtis home playing some golf but mainly resting when he became ill with a cold a few days ago.

He became worse and Monday his physician ordered him to bed. It was determined Monday night that pneumonia had set in.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8—President Hoover followed closely today reports of the condition of Speaker Longworth, ill with pneumonia at Aiken, S. C.

He instructed his personal physician, Captain Joel Boone, to keep in close touch with the speaker's condition and keep him advised.

LOGAN COUNTY MAN PAYS DEATH PENALTY

Slayer of Bellefontaine Woman Calm as State Exacts Life in Chair.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 8—Arthur Hamilton of Logan county, 41-year old father of two children, paid with his life in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary last night for attacking and murdering Mrs. Catherine Bell, 87, of near Bellefontaine.

Entering the death chamber at 7:45 p. m., Hamilton walked unaided to the chair and died without a murmur three minutes later. Except for a fleeting moment when he watched the guards adjust the straps and electrodes, the doomed man showed little interest in the grim proceedings.

Attendants reported Hamilton ate his last meal with relish, although he had declined to select the food, leaving it to Mrs. Preston E. Thomas, wife of the warden. She prepared fried chicken, mashed potatoes, gravy, creamed peas, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake.

After the repast, Hamilton was taken to the death cell—separated only by a partition from the electric chair. He waited silently for the hour of sundown when his death march started.

Mrs. Bell was slain last Nov. 3. The murderer attacked her and threw her body from his automobile on a lonely country road a few miles from her home. Police said Hamilton confessed the crime shortly after his arrest November 11. He was sentenced to die on Good Friday, but Governor White granted a respite so that the electrocution would not occur during the pre-Easter observance.

LONG PRISON SERVICE ENDED

Veteran Keeper Witnesses Many Reforms

By International News Service

OSSINING, N. Y., —The days when crime was discouraged by prison brutalities, mention of which makes one thankful for this enlightened age of reforms, are recalled by the retirement from the staff of Sing Sing prison, New York, of Keeper Alfred Conyes after half a century of service.

When Mr. Conyes first began work at the prison in 1879, offenders against society were made to realize by almost primitive means, that dishonesty is foolish. Convicts were compelled to walk in lockstep, had their heads shaved, were forbidden to talk to each other and had to wear the striped suit. In those days when the only illumination in the prison was supplied by oil lamps, living conditions in the famous institution were such that it could not be truthfully said of it "Stone walls do not a prison make."

* * *

THE cells, when Conyes began his apprenticeship, measured 6 feet 11 inches long, 6 feet 7 inches high and 3 feet 6 inches wide—the smallest area in which it was possible to kennel a human being. Yet these cells were often occupied by two men sleeping one over the other in bunks.

It was the custom to lock the men in these little cubbies after chapel on Sunday, and leave them there until Monday morning, feeding them behind the bars. Often there was a holiday on Monday, in which case they remained confined until Tuesday. To make matters worse, there was no plumbing in the cells, so one can imagine what the sanitary and health conditions were like.

The phrase "up the river" was enough to strike terror into the heart of the most hard-boiled yegg of those days. It meant that he was facing months, years or a lifetime of the monotony that batters and destroys reason.

* * *

CONYES has seen many reforms. Today conversation is not only permitted among prisoners, but actually encouraged during their hours of recreation. They are no longer compelled to wear the striped monstrosity that once branded the felon, nor are their tonsorial styles dictated by the prison barber. No longer are they driven like automatons in the degrading lockstep.

Living conditions, too, have changed. If many of the old lags could come back from Valhalla they'd never know the old home. Roses bloom in what was once the prison morgue under the practiced hand of a "lifer." Cells can no longer be recognized as such, if one will just disregard the bars, for there are curtains in the corner. Cells are furnished with the most up-to-date lavatories and sanitary equipment; they are heated in winter and well ventilated in summer.

* * *

NOT only that, but the inmates are treated like human beings. They have a dramatic class which periodically puts on some good shows; a baseball team and are encouraged to pursue a useful hobby. Newspapers, magazines and books are supplied to men of good behavior. Smoking is permitted at certain times and good wholesome food is served. The greatest boon, however, is that prisoners are allowed to receive and write letters—under strict censorship, of course.

All of these changes, the veteran keeper avers, have been beneficial. Prisoners are easier to handle than in the old days; when they were treated like brute beasts they behaved as such.

Credit for many miracle-working reforms, Conyes adds, is due to the present warden, Mr. Lawes, who has shown that by humane methods it is possible to find the bit of good that is hidden away in everybody.

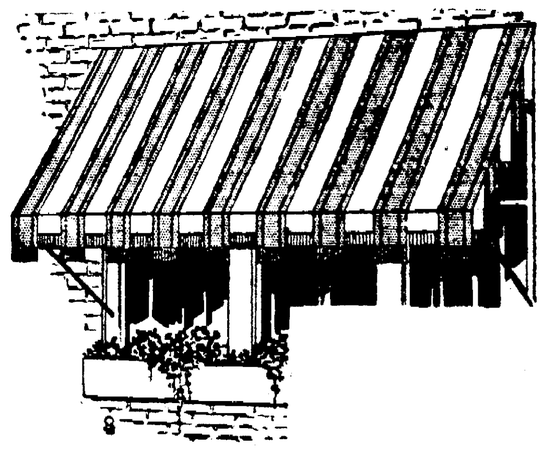
GIVE THOUGHT TO AWNINGS NOW!



Homes equipped with properly constructed Awnings are many degrees cooler in summer than they would otherwise be. AWNINGS are a necessity for the home, the city or the country, not only for real comfort during the warm weather but as a protection for draperies, rugs and other interior furnishings.

Choose your Awnings with due regard for the coloring and style of house they are to adorn. A type that is most attractive and stylish on a home of Spanish design is decidedly out of place on one built along colonial lines. Simple Little Bungalows are made beautiful and charming, homes made doubly attractive by the use of properly designed awnings.

Place Your Order Now!

There are many advantages to be gained by ordering your Awnings early, not the least of which is the avoidance of the delay and discomfort often experienced by waiting until hot weather arrives.

PHONE 2378 OUR AWNING DEPARTMENT and our representative will be pleased to call and show you the new awning materials and help you with your awning problems.

We invite your inspection of the New Awning Patterns.

Never before has there been such a wide range of ARTISTIC modern designs as in the awning fabrics today.

OPEN BIDS FOR WORK ON SCHOOL ADDITION

Chester Township Board To Let Contract in Morrow County Improvement.

Special to The Star.

MT. GILEAD, April 8—Bids for the construction of an addition to the Chesterville school were opened this week by a committee of the Chester township board of education but no contract will be let until the end of the week, K. B. Hoover, superintendent of the school, states.

For the general contract Galbreath and Leonard of Columbus were the low bidders at $30,140. On the heating and ventilating the Columbus Heating and Ventilating Co of Columbus was the low bidder at $4,000. Flavin Bros., Mt. Gilead, entered the low bid on the plumbing contract, $2,886. The committee considering the bids consists of Ray Gordon, Ed Utrey and the clerk of the board, Dewey Rogers.

No Tax Increase

The bond issue of $30,000 passed last fall is not quite sufficient to cover the entire cost of the addition but school officials state that no difficulty is expected in arranging for the small extra sum required.

The addition will contain an auditorium, a gymnasium and several class rooms. It is stated that the bond issue approved by the voters will not increase the tax rate as it merely authorizes the use of money now on hand in another fund.

Obliging Auto Throws Driver from Seat Before Train Crash

By International News Service

CRESTLINE, O., April 8 — —A railroad crossing accident occurring early today with no loss of life, demolished the car driven by W. Allen, 40, of Wooster, and left him the sole witness to a phenomenal escape that promised to become permanent material for the town's best yarn spinners.

Allan came to the East street crossing of the New York Central lines here about 4 a. m. today, he said.

As his car approached the rails, something became wrong with his steering apparatus and he was suddenly pitched from his closed car, out onto the street. His car continued over the crossing.

Allan, bewildered, rose to his feet, in time to see his car picked up on the engine pilot of a fast pullman train and carried 300 feet down the track.

When the train was brought to a stop, nearly an hour was consumed detaching a badly broken pilot from the engine. The automobile was a mass of splintered wreckage.

Allan declared he had no idea the train was near. As for what tossed him from his car, a coach, he confessed it a mystery he never will solve.

GALION, April 8—Six alleys located in the central part of the city are to paved as a result of action taken last night at council meeting. Ordinances were passed authorizing the paving of the alleys off Harding Way.

A large group of citizens who live on North Riblet street were present at the meeting last night to protest paving of the street.

Mr. Peacock of Cleveland, an engineer of the Erie Railroad Co. attended the meeting in regard to a part of West Railroad street being dedicated to the city. No action was taken.

The ordinances in regard to the taxi licenses and also the peddlers license law were withheld until the next meeting.

MEETING TO LAUNCH OHIO AUTO PROGRAM

State Association Will Get Spring and Summer Plans Under Way This Week.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 8—Spring and summer activities of the Ohio State Automobile association will be launched here April 9 and 10, when secretaries, managers and officials of automobile clubs over the state will gather for the spring "inspirational meeting" of the association.

Frank C. Janes, secretary of the association, has announced that plans for the gathering are complete, and that officials of the state official family, including Governor White, have accepted invitations to participate. Members of both branches of the general assembly also have accepted invitations.

Lloyd Timmerman of Lima, president of the state association, will preside at the business sessions and will be master of ceremonies at a luncheon to be held Thursday.

Other state guests will include Frederick N. Smith, executive vice president of the American Automobile association, Russell E. Singhi, assistant secretary, and Miles Dunkins, manager of the national touring board.

The first day will be given over to the consideration of sales and service problems, and other topics of interest to automobile clubs of the state. Friday, the theme for discussion will be touring and the problems it presents.

FARM BOARD WORK DECLARED FAILURE

Chicago Board of Trade President Advises Government To Quit Grain Business.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 8—President James C. Murray, of the Chicago board of trade, declared today that the stablization program of the farm board "has failed completely in the attempt to maintain the markets on any satisfactory level. In an address before the Chicago Association of Commerce, he said the farm board's operations have only resulted in accumulations which are a menace to growing crops."

Murray said the board of trade strongly recommended that the government should divest itself entirely of the business of merchandising grain, and dispose of the surplus already stored up with the least possible disturbance to the marketing of the coming crops. He also said the market should be relieved of unnecessary detailed governmental supervision and bureaucratic control.

Motion Pictures Used in O. S. U. Art Training

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 8—Another new one in the way of laboratory equipment for students of the fine arts. At Ohio State university they are using a new type of model-moving picture. The student watches the picture in a darkened room. The lights then are flashed on and the young artist's sketch what they saw. The film is run a second time as a check on their work.

Members of the fine arts department explain that this training permits students to drill themselves in action drawing and to observe objects and persons closely.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, April 9

AN uncertain and precarious state of affairs is the augury based upon the adverse position of important planets ruling this day. Employment is under sinister sway, new projects are perilious. The Jupiter position in opposition with Luna hints of extravagance excessive indulgence and a disposition to gamble or speculate which would be disastrous. The personal relations may be pleasant and lively.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year in which there may be perilous and precarious events, with employment and new undertakings in jeopardy. A child born on this day may be disposed to be restless, nervous and unsettled, and inclined to gambling, speculation, extravagance and personal prodigality.

70 Head of Cattle Sell for $64,000—in 1870

By The Associated Press

XENIA, O., April 8—Speaking of peak prices for livestock, those obtained by Daniel McMillan at a sale held near here in 1870 are believed to have set something of a record.

The records show McMillan got $64,000 for 70 head of registered shorthorn cattle—an average of more than $900 per head.

The highest price for an individual head was $3,600.

McMillan was one of the leading breeders of shorthorns during that period, and many of the animals he sold had been champions at fairs in Ohio and elsewhere.

SECOND CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT LOOMS

SHARKEY SLATED TO BOX PRIMO CARNERA IN NEW YORK FIGHT

Young Stribling Signed To Meet Max Schmeling in Other Battle.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 8—Unless something happens to upset the dope, it appears that there will be two fights for two heavyweight championships of the world this summer.

Max Schmeling is slated to defend his title against young Willie Stribling in Cleveland, probably in July, and now it develops that lumbering Primo Carnera of Italy and Jack Sharkey have been matched for a bout at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, on June 10, and the winner probably will be recognized by the New York state athletic commission as champion.

Reports current for some time that Johnny Johnston, who shifted his role from manager to promoter, had opened his battle against the Madison Square garden corporation by signing up a rival heavyweight attraction were crystallized yesterday with the definite news of the date for the 15 round scrap.

Officially the commission announced that Carnera, suspended after his famous "fungo hitting" tour, will be reinstated "sooner or later" but unofficially it was made known that the reinstatement would be in time for a meeting with Sharkey. Half the profits of the Ebbets field show, it is understood, will be given to New York charities.

There still remains the chance that the garden will attempt to hold Carnera to his agreement to meet Schmeling or Stribling. The giant Italian posted a $25,000 binder which stood until the New York milk fund withdrew from the western show.

SUGGESTION for changes in recreation baseball are being made at a rapid rate this year. From time to time during the last few weeks any number of proposals have been advanced although quite a lot never get as far as the city commission.

The latest suggestion turned into this department concerns the names of the two Sunday school leagues. Jim O'Dowd, manager of the Forest Lawn entry in No. 2 league would like to see a change made in the name of the circuit. O'Dowd believes the name has a tendency to be misleading to followers of the sport here

• • •

O'Dowd contends the very mention of the name, No. 2 league, is sufficient to cause many persons to stay away from the games because of the thought the No. 2 teams are more or less of minor ability. He would like to see two names instead of two numbers used to designate the different loops.

The suggestion is not a bad one at all. The No. 2 loop is not as fast as No. 1 but it is fast enough to guarantee a lot of first class baseball. If the O'Dowd suggestion is carried to the commission, and it probably will be, that body will do recreation ball a good turn here by seriously considering its adoption.

• • •

Unless some of the managers of the various city recreation ball clubs get their entries into the hands of the commission' secretary within the next few days there are likely to be some disappointed ball players in the city this summer. the deadline for entries is Friday, April 10, at 6 p. m. and the commission insists that the deadline will be adhered to.

• • •

Quite a number of entries have been filed but not nearly of all the 32 teams that played last year are in. It is quite possible that some of them will drop out but there are also several new teams who have already applied for permission to take the places of the departing organizations.

The commission stated recently there would be no extension to the time for filing entries. Warning has been given that old teams will not be given preference over new entres unless the old ones are in before the deadline. Better get them in if you want to play ball this summer.

TRIBUTE PROPOSED

Committee Would Build New Field House to Honor Rockne

By The Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 8—A new field house may rise on Notre Dame's campus as a tribute to Knute Rockne.

Members of the Rockne memorial committee, at their meeting last night, were unanimously in favor of building a much needed field house in his memory instead of re-naming the new football stadium as "Rockne stadium."

Committees will be organized in all principal cities of the United States to receive donations for the fund. If it is large enough, a new field house is reasonably certain.

SLAM! BANG! RETURN GO WON BY BROWNING IN STRAIGHT FALLS

Two weeks ago in the Marion Steam Shovel ring Allan Eustace and Jim Browning put on a wrestling match. Eustace won. Last night in the same place the two met in a return match. Browning won.

About 300 persons filled the Shovel hall to see the two heavyweights batter and smash each other all over the ring last night. It would take a definition other than the one ordinarily used to describe a wrestling match to describe the battle last night. Both wrestlers hammered away at his opponent with fists, elbows, feet or anything else available. The only thing they didn't hit each other with was the water bucket. They would probably have used that if there had been one there.

Straight Falls

Browning won the bout in straight falls, the first coming after 35 minutes and the second after eight.

It didn't take long after the match started to see what was going to happen. A few preliminary slaps, probably for the purpose of warming up, and the battle was on. Nothing was excluded from the match in the way of roughness. Eustace banged Browning all over the arena for about 10 minutes and then Browning staged a little exhibition of roughness for the benefit of Eustace and spectators. Punishing leg splits, wrist locks, butts, and plain slugging all had their inning. It was a good exhibition from the spectators standpoint but it wasn't nearly all wrestling.

Kruskamp Loses

In the semi-final match Hardy Kruskamp lost to Santon of California. Kruskamp was apparently on the way to a decision in the half hour bout when he let Santon drop him with an airplane slam.

Two 10 minute preliminaries were also on the card. In the second prelim Carl Beightler took a beating from Rhinehart of Mt. Gilead and was thrown in seven minutes.

Bing Flanagan of Marion is still trying to win a match. Dick Griffin, of Marion, wrestling with Flanagan in the first prelim, spotted Flanagan 35 pounds and then proceeded to pin him in four minutes flat. Flanagan never had a chance.

GRUBER NAMED

C. & O. Chooses Manager for Baseball and Recreation Ball.

R. R. Gruber, a pitcher, has been selected to manage the recreation baseball team of the Chesapeake & Ohio railway this season in the city Commercial league. Gruber was chosen to the post last night at a meeting of the Health and Recreation association of the road, held in the local paymaster's office.

Other officers elected by the group are Ray Bishop, general chairman, Harry Gorenflo, vice chairman, and Earl Sargent, secretary and treasurer. The choosing of a bowling chairman was deferred until later.

The company is urging a wider participation in athletics on the part of the employes.

START ARCHERY CLUB

Any individuals interested in archery are invited to attend a meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Y. M. C. A. Organization of a club to boost archery locally will be formed at this time. A meeting was held last night by several interested persons but nothing was done.

LOU BLOOM IN DRAW

By United Press

WHEELING, W. Va., April 8—Lou Bloom of Columbus fought to a draw with Frankie Porto of Pittsburgh, in a 10-round bout here last night. They weighed 130 pounds. Freddy Ruckman of Wheeling and Chet Smallwood of Akron fought a six-round draw at 138 pounds.

SENIOR CIRCUIT'S SAGES

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE'S TRIO OF TITANS!—"JAWN" McGRAW, WHO VOWS THAT IT'S TIME THE GIANTS WON ANOTHER FLAG; AND GABBY STREET (Below) INSISTS THAT THE CARDS'LL REPEAT!
WHO'LL WIN?
SPORT BUG.
WILBERT ROBINSON—IS THIS BROOKLYN'S YEAR?
4-8

Nice-looking boys those, sketched above when displaying none of that guilt so often ascribed to baseball and other master minds. Note that John of the McGraws has his cap well pushed back above his Brobdingnagian brow in order, perhaps, to permit the mental rays of baseball genius to radiate more readily from the McGravian cerebrations to their Giant subjects in the field or on the bench! "Gabby" Street, mourning over the 1930 World Series, seems to be just beginning to think out another National League pennant for his beloved Cardinals. And there's Wilbert Robinson, the beloved "Uncle Robby," who has hired so many heavy hitters for his Robins that evidently he is relying, this year, on bats rather than his own master mind to win a pennant for Brooklyn.

Seriously, these three sages of the games senior circuit are each highly hopeful as the start of the 1931 season nears.

The St. Louis Cards, winners last year, are stronger now. Manager Street is especially proud of his pitching staff that will feature "Wild Bill" Hallahan, Burleigh Grimes, Paul Derringer and also Flint Rhem, Jesse Haines and Sylvester Johnston with the jazzy "Dizzy" Dean in reserve if he can be kept there.

"Napoleon" McGraw is hoping that Johnny Vergez will improve in batting and make good at third (Freddie Lindstrom already is playing the outfield splendidly), and that one or two of his new pitchers will insure another pennant for the N. Y. Giants.

"Uncle Robby" is basing his hopes on heavy team hitting, a rejuvenation of "Dazzy" Vance's aging arm, and lots of that vital factor — good luck. The Robins gave a great display of heavy artillery during their tour of the training "citrus circuit," pounding out 69 runs in their first eight games with major league rivals! The acquisition of "Lefty" O'Doul may justify the Robinsonian belief that this gives Brooklyn just the extra punch needed for pennant winning in the National League.

Helene Madison Cracks Another Water Record

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 8—Here's an item of news that isn't news at all:

Helene Madison, Seattle swimming star, cracked still another record last night. In a race against time in the Illinois women's athletic club, she swam the 220-yard free style event in 2:36 1-5 or five seconds faster than the seven-year-old mark established by Gertrude Ederle.

Miss Madison, out to crack every world's mark for women, now holds 13 out of a possible 16 records.

STABLES SWEPT BY FLAMES; 27 HORSES ARE BURNED TO DEATH

Defective Wiring Causes One Fire in Which 18 Thoroughbreds Die.

By The Associated Press

ANCHORAGE, Ky., April 8—W. C. Weant, turfman, today still had a thoroughbred to bear his colors in the Kentucky derby May 16, but smouldering ruins covered the remains of eight other horses in training, eight broodmares and two foals.

Matadi, his only derby eligible, was left with five other horses at Churchill Downs, Louisville, upon their arrival from St. John's park, Florida, yesterday. Stall room for eight being unavailable, they were sent to his farm at Oakland Station. Last night they were burned to death with the broodmares and foals.

Fire, believed caused by defective wiring, destroyed his stable containing the 18 horses. Mrs. Weant and Anchorage firemen stood helplessly watching the barn burn to the ground, the intense heat preventing active fighting of the flames. Mr. Weant, on his way home from Florida by motor, could not be reached for an estimate of the loss.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 8—Hollywood Daisy today was the only one left of 10 fine broodmares owned by John L. Dodge, New York trotting horseman. The other nine, valued at almost $100,000, were burned to death when fire destroyed a barn on his Hollywood farm near here last night.

With the broodmares, five foals and four mules lost their lives. The total damage to barn and contents was estimated by the farm overseer at $125,000.

Two of the broodmares destroyed were valued at $20,000 each. They were Hollywood Pansy, dam of Hollywood Harrod, a leading three-year-old trotting horse, and Jane Dillon. The other mares were valued at from $5,000 to $10,000 each.

DUNLAP, BLUE MEET IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

New York Linksman Scores 145 on 36 Holes in North and South Play.

By The Associated Press

PINEHURST, N. C., April 8—George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, the medalist, was matched against H. J. Blue, of Pinehurst, winner of last place in the championship flight in a play-off for first round match play today in the annual North and South amateur golf tournament.

The New York linksman smashed out a 36-hole score of 145 to top the field in the medal round by a 10 stroke margin.

Blue and James Berger of Newark, N. J., finished with 166's, the former winning in a play-off to enter the championship flight of 16.

WOULD REPRESENT U. S.

By The Associated Press

DECATUR, Ill., April 8—Lee Sentman of the University of Illinois, world's record holder in the hurdle events, hopes to represent the United States in the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles, he said today. Sentman plans to accompany an American track team, sponsored by the National Amateur athletic union, on a trip to Europe this summer.

De Paolo's New Car Ready For Indianapolis Classic

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 8—Peter De Paolo, one of the most colorful of racing stars and holder of the world's record for 500 miles at a gait of 101.13 miles an hour, will be the chauffeur on a new Miller motored Boyle Valve Special in the International Sweepstakes at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway in May, it was learned here today.

De Paolo, vest pocket replica and nephew of Ralph De Palma, started the race here last year in a Duesenberg but at the end of eight laps brought it into the pits, claiming it was impossible for him to tool it safely in the fast competition on the Indianapolis bricks.

De Paolo's pit crew, anxious to keep the car in the running sent Fred Wannai, a husky, broad shouldered pilot out on the track with the mount De Paolo discarded as unmanageable. A few laps later Winnai brought the car back to the pits, climbed out and refused to drive it another mile.

The pit crew still believing in the car sent Fred Roberts, a comparatively unknown pilot from Danville, Ill., out into the race with it. Within a few laps he rode it cross wise of the track in the north turn and started a jam that wrecked six cars in one of the most spectacular and hair raising scenes ever seen in the hazardous sport of auto racing. No one was injured, but it was expensive proof that De Paolo, a veteran driver, was correct when he maintained at the end of eight laps that the car was uncontrollable at high speed.

It is a coincidence that the car De Paolo condemned kept the world's record for 500 miles in his list of undisturbed accomplishments. For had it not been for the accident started by his car, which slowed the field down to a snail's pace for nearly 10 laps, Billy Arnold, winner of the race would certainly have established a new mark for the five century. As it was Arnold was only sixty-nine hundredths of a mile an hour under De Paolo's mark made in a Duesenberg in 1925.

WOOSTER NEEDS MEN FOR FIELD EVENTS

Eight Regulars Back, but Many Stars Missing from Squad.

Special to The Star

WOOSTER, O., April 8—Finding capable field event men is the problem Coach Carl B. Munson, Wooster College track mentor faces these chilly spring days as he puts his varsity squad of 35 through warming up paces.

With eight regulars back from last season, Coach Munson is well fortified in the track events but is woefully weak in field event candidates.

Four regular, all point winners in the Big Six last season, and three of them field event men, was Wooster's annual loss by graduation. They are Mal Stewart, co-holder of the Big Six pole vault mark, Stern, broad jumper, Powers, discus, and Dundon, distance runner.

Wooster's returning veterans are Capt. Hal Teal, hurdles and broad jump, Rutherford, broad jump, Ewing and Cort, dashes, Nelson and Young, hurdles, and Whitcomb for the quarter and half.

L. C. Boles, athletic director at Wooster, has announced the track schedule as follows:

April 25, Mt. Union at Wooster.
May 2, Case at Wooster.
May 9, Akron at Akron.
May 15, Oberlin at Oberlin.
May 23, Muskingum at Wooster.
May 29-30, Big Six at Oberlin.

MORE TROUBLE!

Cubs to Throw Weekly "Ladies' Day" Parties at Wrigley Park.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 8—The Cubs are going to throw weekly "ladies' day" parties at Wrigley field, again this year.

Although they got a headache trying to devise schemes to prevent riots for free ducats by the ladies last summer, they are not only back with the same free offers but advertising the news.

"Write for them and we'll give them away—20,000 of them for the first ladies' day, April 17, but don't come after them at the gate," the advertisement reads.

BRISK BOOST GIVEN STOCKS

Flurry of Short Covering Sends Big Board Suddenly Upward.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 8—Share prices were given a substantial boost in today's market as stock was bought to retire short contracts.

On the whole, the mid-week business statistics seemed to be less gloomy than bears had expected. A moderate recovery in Brazilian bonds was an encouraging development in that quarter. Trading in stocks was in light volume.

The weekly steel trade reviews reported the expected slowing up of ingot output. "Iron Age" placing production at 52 per cent of capacity, against 57 a fortnight ago, while no major upturn seems to be in prospect before the seasonal impulse is felt in August reviews, reviews indicate the situation is too mixed to show a conclusive trend, and suggest that uncertainty over price schedules may have imposed a damper for the moment.

The weekly report of freight car loadings show the small decline of 1,863 cars from the previous week, but it was notable that miscellaneous freight and less than car load lots, the more important barometers of industrial activity in this tabulation, were higher than the preceding week.

Weekly petroleum statistics showed substantial reductions in both crude output and in gasoline stocks in storage.

Call money was on a 1½ per cent basis, and was in fair supply.

GRAIN PRICES SHOW FIRMNESS

Decreasing Liverpool Stocks Aid Tone of Market in Chicago.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 8—Grain displayed firmness early today, wheat helped by Liverpool reports on decreasing stocks, and corn by predictions of stormy weather. European dispatches mentioned unseasonable cold and also crop scares. Opening 1-8c off to 1-4 up, wheat later held near to the initial range. Corn started at 1-8 decline to 1-2 advance, and subsequently rose all around.

Assertions that 60 cent wheat in the United States represented almost complete deflation were emphasized today in connection with Liverpool advices that wheat supplies were going into active consumer use, and that wheat stocks in six British centers totaled but 5,208,000 bushels compared with 7,976,000 three months ago. Speculative sellers here gave evidence of caution on account also of the fact that a Washington report tomorrow would officially announce the condition of growing winter wheat, and would estimate the amount of binned wheat still in farmers' hands. Bulls continued to make much of persistent indications of probable widespread crop damage from insects.

Reports of cutworms in Nebraska wheat caused serious concern. More than a thousand acres near Hemingford were destroyed. Armies of the worm were described as moving across wheat fields and taking a swath of 15 to 20 feet wide in a single day. The mild open winter was said to have permitted the eggs to hatch wholesale, whereas ordinarily most of the eggs would be killed. Corn and oats were responsive to wheat strength.

CITY AIRPORT AGAIN ACTIVE

Cobb Brings Plane Here for Service at Local Flying Field.

After lying dormant several months, Marion airport is rapidly taking on an air of activity since it was taken over from the city April 1 by Harold W. Cobb of Marion.

Cobb is rapidly shaping the port into a well conditioned airport to invite the passing flyer. All types of air service, and a free taxi service into the city, will be available at the port within a few days.

An authorized agent of the Curtiss-Wright Co., Cobb is prepared to give the flyer mechanical service as well as fuel and oil and storage. Minor repairs will be made at the port by a licensed mechanic, while major work will be handled at Port Columbus, base for the Curtiss-Wright Co.

A Challenger ship, recently purchased by Cobb for use in his operation of the port, was put in service yesterday.

The Challenger is a three-place cabin plane. It will be available for short or long passenger hauls from the port.

Cobb has been busy putting finishing touches on the runways and fixing up the interior of the metal hangar at the port in preparation for an active spring and summer season.

Persons desiring flying instruction may take lessons from Cobb, who is a licensed transport pilot.

Marionites are invited to visit the port at any time and inspect the field and the hangar building, Cobb said yesterday. A log containing the names of all visiting planes will be kept at the airport for inspection.

Prospect Man Fined on Fishing Charge

Tony Baris of Prospect was arrested yesterday afternoon near Prospect by State Game Protector O. H. Nelmeyer for fishing with unbaited hooks. He was fined $25 and costs in the mayor's court at Prospect.

Nelmeyer has issued a warning against the use of unbaited hooks in fishing. Although the public does not seem to be generally aware of the fact, he says, it is unlawful to fish in this manner.

Three Washington Mysteries Unsolved

Trio of Women Victims of Slayings That Baffle Police.

Editor's Note: This is the fifth of a series of six stories by Associated Press writers dealing with recent celebrated murder cases.

* * *

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON—The average citizens in Washington is inclined to blame any unidentified night noises on cats or the wind.

His sleep is usually sound.

Burglaries are comparatively few, and the laundryman carries his clothes unhampered by the racketeer. The police might be slightly patronizing toward their brother officers in more "uproarious" cities were it not for a series of baffling murders.

The slayers of three women who have met violent deaths within the last two years never have been found.

The strangest case of all is that of Mary Baker, navy department clerk.

* * *

MISS BAKER, daughter of a Virginia minister, was a quiet girl, nearing 30.

She went to church on the day she disappeared, a church near the downtown business section. She walked away with two girl friends left them on a busy corner in broad day, and was never seen alive again.

Her body was found the next day stuffed into a culvert near Arlington national cemetery. She had been shot three times.

Scores of suspects were arrested and released. No motive could be established, nor had one been established when Herbert M. Campbell, Virginia real estate operator, was brought to trial charged with her murder.

The authorities never were able to prove that Campbell ever saw Mary Baker. The evidence against him was the statement of ballistic experts that his gun fired the bullets found in the girl's body.

* * *

CAMPBELL offered a good alibi and the verdict "not guilty," was a foregone conclusion.

That trial was during last October, and the New Year celebrations had hardly died away before the police were busy trying to find the murderer of another woman.

She was Beulah Limerick, a different type from Mary Baker. Beulah was 19, pretty, a theater usher and the secretary of the "Sky High Whoopee club."

Inquest and months of investigation leave the murder of Beulah Limerick (upper left), pretty Washington usherette, shrouded in mystery as deep as that surrounding the earlier murder of Mary Baker (lower right), clergyman's daughter. The Limerick girl's sister, Mrs. Ethel Anadale (center), is shown as she appeared at the inquest.

* * *

The girl lived in an isolated house with her brother, Vernon and a friend. She came home from a dance of her club Dec. 30 in good spirits and went to bed. They called her the next morning but she did not respond. She was dead.

Baker, Limerick and McPherson Cases Are Puzzles.

AN interne, after a casual examination, decided she had had a hemorrhage during the night. Her body was taken to an undertaking establishment. An embalmer that day heard a steady dripping and investigated. Blood was oozing slowly from a bullet wound in the back of the girl's head.

The authorities have arrested 15 or 20 persons, among them a former policeman. Almost all the suspects have been released.

The Limerick and Baker cases have strengthened the belief of many that Virginia McPherson, charming young nurse, also was murdered.

She was found in her apartment in September, 1929, with a pajama cord knotted about her neck. There was a long and futile inquiry.

New York's strange case, the Arnold Rothstein mystery, will be the next and final story of this series.

WILLIAM HAINES IN "THE TAILOR MADE MAN"

William Haines comes to the Palace Thursday and Friday in "A Tailor Made Man." Haines has always appeared rather harum-skarum, but they may have made him over for his latest starring picture.

DOROTHY JORDAN

His new leading lady is the winsome Dorothy Jordan who hails from Clarksville, Tenn. Haines is from Virginia. Others in the cast include Marjorie Rambeau, Joseph Cawthorn, Ian Keith, Hedda Hopper and Hale Hamilton.

After making this picture Haines jovially remarked that instead of it taking nine tailors to make a man, it takes nine men to make a tailor. He had to learn the technique of clothes repairing, pants pressing and other details of the tailor's calling.

The picture is based on the play of the same name which enjoyed a long run at the Cohan & Harris theater in New York City in 1927.

"THE W PLAN" GOOD WAR PICTURE

"The W Plan" at the Marion tonight and Thursday is a sinister story woven around a plot that might have succeeded during the World war.

We won't give away the plan, but it will suffice to say that it's rather shuddery to think about. The foreign cast is headed by Brian Aherne and Madeleine Carroll.

Aherne is in the British Intelligence service and learns part of the W plan. As a spy he becomes involved with the German forces to the extent that he is commanded to act as interpreter to an English company of prisoners engaged in executing the W plan.

SCENIC PICTURE COMING TO PRINCESS

"White Hell of Pitz Palu," said to be one of the best of the scenic pictures of the year, opens at the Princess tonight for a two-day showing.

Graham McNamee, famous talking reporter, gives the vocal dramatization throughout the picture. The picture was produced by Dr. Arnold Fanck in the high Alps of Switzerland and has a foreign cast. Pitz Palu is one of the most magnificent mountain peaks in the Alps and is known to thousands of American tourists who go to the Italian lakes and St. Moritz region every year.

Springfield Youth Is Awarded Scholarship

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., April 8—Harold W. Arnold, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Arnold, has been notified of the award to him of a scholarship at a German university carrying a year's tuition, board and room. The scholarship was given through the American-German Student Exchange, Inc., under the auspices of the Institute of International Education.

Arnold, whose father is a member of the Wittenberg college faculty, is the youngest senior of the class of 1931 to be graduated in June.

William G. Parchen of New York, a graduate last year, now is in Germany as a graduate student.

DIDN'T LAST LONG

Holder of what is probably the world's record for a short married lift and a speedy divorce, Betty Compson, stage actress, was married to Eddie Dowling, screen director, at New York on Feb. 16 and divorced him at Cuernavaca, Mexico, on March 21. The couple are shown above as they appeared during their brief honeymoon at Havana, Cuba.

CLOCK ALL WOOD

Unique Timepiece Completed by Ohio Carpenter.

By The Associated Press

DEFIANCE, O., April 8—A clock whose every part, even to the most delicate unit of its working mechanism, is of wood has been completed by Andrew Swary, 74-year-old Defiance carpenter.

Swary was three months completing the timepiece, which now stands in the parlor of his home. He says the clock is very accurate. The work was done with a pen knife.

The material in the instrument has a history. The wood was taken from a wooden chest which has been in Mrs. Swary's family for more than a century. The chest was brought by Mrs. Swary's father, Charles Lampach, when he came here from Germany in 1847.

New Farm Federation Leader Knows All About Agriculture

He is Edward Asbury O'Neal, Ill, who has been elected to succeed Sam H. Thompson as president of the American Farm Bureau federation. Thompson resigned to become a member of the farm board.

EDWARD A. O'NEAL

Heads Cooperation Work

Under O'Neal's leadership the Alabama farm bureau has extended its activities to include the cooperative marketing of practically all farm products. Cooperative buying of supplies for planting, cultivating and harvesting of crops has likewise meant great savings to Alabama farmers.

A tireless worker for improvement of farm conditions, O'Neal has been active in all farm organizations in his native state for years. He has served the American Farm Bureau Federation as vice president and as chairman of the legislative committee.

Proposed Shoals Plan

It was O'Neal who advanced the proposal of a plan for the taking over of the great nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals by the American Farm Bucrau Federation under lease from the government for the purpose of manufacturing fertilizers.

Born 55 years ago near the site of Muscle Shoals, O'Neal was reared on the farm and his interest in practical farming and the farmer's problems has grown with the years.

Graduated from Washington and Lee university in Virginia in 1898 O'Neal began farming for himself near Florence in 1899. He was a member of the Washington and Lee football team in 1895-6. He was married November 23, 1904 to Julia Camper, of Florence. They have three children.

Checker Club Speakers To Tell Members of 100 Groups About Community Fund

Forty Local Persons Give Time To Explain Activities of Charity Body.

Marion Checker club speakers, going before more than 100 organizations this month, have an interesting story to tell in the review of the activities of the Community Fund during the last year.

The club is now composed of 40 speakers who have donated their time to explain the aims and functions of the fund to Marion organizations and pave the way for the annual drive of the fund within a few weeks.

Review Accomplishments

The speakers also answer any question that might be raised about the fund and its activities. But one of the principal tasks of the speaker is to review the many and varied accomplishments financed by the fund in the last 12 months.

In order to facilitate the reviewing of agency activities, the Checker club committee of the fund has equipped each speaker with a booklet embodying annual reports of all fund agencies. A brief summary of the contents of this booklet follow.

First the booklet answers the question, Why a Community Fund? Before the fund was organized, the various agencies conducted separate drives each year. Scarcely a month passed but some charitable drive was under way. The fund accomplishes all this in a single drive during a 10-day period in which funds for all agencies are raised simultaneously. Less effort and expense is required to raise the same amount of money for the same purposes.

With a coordination of agency activities made possible in the fund, duplication of effort is eliminated. In welfare work this is particularly true.

Activities of each agency is taken up separately in the booklet.

Red Cross

First, in order is the Red Cross, a voluntary organization, chartered by congress, to relieve distress in time of war and in disaster. It continues its war time service to veterans and their families. In the last year, 580 veterans or dependents received some service through the local chapter. Through application in the local office, lump sum awards amounting to $10,587 have been paid to veterans or by the veterans bureau and new payments at the rate of $4,900 have been granted. The chapter assisted world war veterans obtain $89,000 in loans on their bonuses. At present the chapter does no civilian relief.

A Red Cross life saving instructor last year qualified 29 senior and 30 junior life savers. Another activity was first aid instruction given a group of 25 men and women who will pass this instruction on to several hundred persons.

Red Cross nurses made 6,144 visits in the last 12 months. Extensive health work was done in the school with the nurses cooperating with Health Commissioner Dr. N. Sifritt. The nurses cooperated in immunizing 1,044 students against diphtheria.

Scout Movement

Another popular movement of the fund is scouting. The Boy Scout idea is a movement rather than an organization. It aims to supplement existing organization, such as the home, church, and school by engaging the boy's leisure-time energies in outdoor games and activities of cultural and practical value.

Each troop is sponsored by some institution or organization. Scoutcraft includes instruction in first aid, life saving, tracking, signaling, nature study, woodcraft, handicraft and civic service. Local scouting activities are carried on largely at Scout Camp John A. Owens south of here.

A little heard of but very active unit of the fund is the Marion city dispensary or clinic conducted at City hospital. The dispensary dispenses medical services to the poor of Marion through the cooperation of the doctors and dentists who donate their time to the work. It is financed by the fund and carried on through the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs, City Union King's Daughters and the Parent-Teachers' association.

Closely allied in the clinic work is the City Union King's Daughters charity ward at the hospital where 72 persons, including 16 men, 37 women and 19 children were treated for a variety of ailments and diseases during the last year. The principal aim of this work is to restore health to the wage earner of the family, to help him or her resume work.

Welfare Society

The Family Welfare society is one of the more recent creations of the fund. It began functioning the first week in December last year, and since has helped 2,293 persons and has distributed 9,225 pieces of clothing and shoes. It takes care of all welfare work of the fund including work formerly done by several of the agencies. It operates under trained supervision.

Nutrition work in the school is a fund project two years old. Four thousand six hundred pupils in the first six grades of elementary schools are given regular instruction on nutrition and food values in 116 classes reached by Miss Esther Tress, trained nutritionist. Special attention is given children who are undernourished and underweight and correctional diets are suggested. More than 150 children are given milk in the schools daily. Considerable attention is given the condition of the teeth of pupils along with nutrition work.

Salvation Army

Still another activity financed by the fund is that of the Salvation Army which aims to bring the claims of the Gospel to bear upon those not reached by any other denomination. The army did considerable welfare work before the establishment of the family welfare society and has continued to help transients. Hundreds of persons are reached in the religious services conducted by the army.

The St. Vincent De Paul society, a Catholic organization, reached 38 adults and 55 children with its welfare work before the family welfare society began its work.

One of the principal character building organizations financed by the fund and also through private membership is the Y. M. C. A. The Y is made up of a large number of different groups, clubs and leagues with a total membership of 2,917.

The Y owns and operates a modern and fully equipped camp for boys and girls at Hepburn where hundreds of children are given the benefit of the out-of-doors and sunshine.

ORDER FOREIGN RESIDENTS OUT

Decree Issued To Quell Revolt in Madeira; All Ports Closed.

By The Associated Press.

LISBON, Portugal, April 8—Evacuation of foreign residents of Madeira was provided for and closing of all ports of the island group was ordered in an emergency cabinet decree published today.

The decree intimates all residents of the island who have accepted posts under the rebel junta set up there will be dismissed and tried in special courts.

The decree affirmed intention of the government to suppress the revolt which, apparently instigated by political deportees, has overthrown the Lisbon authority in Funchal. An offer will be made the garrison at Funchal and the military junta there to allow them to return to the government fold whereafter, in the vent of its refusal, military measures, made possible by a large expeditionary force sent to Madeira, will be undertaken.

"Subject to special regulation," today's decree says, "warships and merchantmen may enter and leave the ports in order to evacuate foreign residents." In closing the island ports the order forbids inhabitants communicating with the outside world in any manner.

The first contingent of the expeditionary force, numbering 600, sailed yesterday aboard the transport Pedro Gomez. The transport was escorted by the gunboat Zaire.

PLANE WRECKED

By The Associated Press.

ZANESVILLE, O., April 8—When their plane hit a tree in a forced landing five miles south of here last night, Michael Jaffin, 25, Kansas City pilot, received bruises and a broken nose and Curtis Wetzel of Lock Haven, Pa., owner of the plane, escaped with bruises. They were enroute to Lock Haven.

Easiest Way To Break Up a Cold

Millions Say of This Proved Way

Works Fast—Makes You Feel Like a New Person Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

MANAGUA HIT BY NEW QUAKE

Many Walls Crash and Natives Are in Panic; No Casualties Listed.

By International News Service.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 8—The earthquake which wrecked Managua more than a week ago wrought damage as far as 15 miles north of the Nicaraguan capital it was learned today.

Previously it was believed the shock was confined to the city, but delayed reports from inland officials revealed property was shaken down on the north side of Lake Managua.

Panic threatened again for a time yesterday when another earth shock, nearly as violent as the one that caused the disaster with a loss of some 3,000 lives, sent scores of walls crashing down. No further casualties were reported.

Fires, fanned by high winds, continued to menace the remnants of the city. A shortage of water has made it practically impossible to keep any major blaze under control.

Native volunteers persevered at clearing away debris, while relief was carried on systematically by a large body of doctors and nurses.

Although most natives have never heard of him before, they looked forward today to the arrival of Will Rogers, American humorist.

DITCH AWARD LET BY BOARDS

Marion and Morrow County Officials Let Contract for Project.

... for labor on the Heim-... county ditch, petitioned ... Heimlich, was awarded to ... Keller of Fairmont, Ind., at ... $1,655.48 by a joint-county ... commissioners of Marion ... Morrow county yesterday ...

The contract price for construct-... ditch, which will benefit ... owners in Richland township ... Marion county and Westfield ... in Morrow county, is con-... less than half the esti-... cost of $3,976.20.

One Year To Pay

Following the award, the joint board reformed a final order issued recently allowing landowners five years to pay special assessments and providing for the issuance of bonds at 5½ per cent interest. The revised order adopted by the board gives the landowners only one year to pay special assessments, and does away with interest charges.

The property owners' share will be paid out of the appropriation for ditch purposes, and must be paid back to the county in one year by the property owners. The first assessments will be due in December this year and the final assessments must be paid in the June collection of 1932.

Terms under which assessments on the ditch are to be paid were altered by the commissioners to conform to a recent ruling of the legislature which provides that the entire county cannot be taxed to make up a deficiency in special assessments on water and sewer improvements.

All Open Work

The contract calls for completion of the ditch by July 1. Construction of the ditch calls for open work only.

After the joint meeting, the Marion county board approved contracts for the construction of the Holverstott ditch in Claridon township, to be completed by Aug. 1. The contracts were made with the Hancock Brick & Tile Co. for materials at $438.38; the Landon Bros. for labor at $223.82; and with F. A. McAllister for open work at $1,299.

duce the speed law during the present session. The vote on the Myers bill that would have cut the speed in residential sections from 35 to 25 miles per hour received only 14 votes to 95 against.

Marriage Notice Bill Passed

The Aumend marriage license bill which would require from five to 30 days notice be given before issuance of a marriage license now is ready for Governor White's consideration. The senate passed the measure yesterday. Another measure ready for the governor, after the house concurs in some minor senate amendments, is the Beard bill regulating the manufacture, sale, storage and transportation of fireworks.

Still another measure sent to the governor prohibits the sale of colored oleomargarine.

The controversial old-age pension bill was ready for action on the floor of the house today but if passed it would be non-operative.

The house finance committee by a vote of 12 of the 23 members reported the bill for passage last night after the measure was shorn of the provisions for financing the pension fund.

The measure was known as the Goodwin-Blum bill and provided payment of a maximum of $300 a year to persons over 70 years of age who had no other means of support. A graduated scale for those with meager incomes was set up.

An amendment removing the section providing for payment of the pensions, half from the state and half from the county general revenue funds, was inserted by the finance committee after it was unable to find a means for providing the money.

No Funds Provided

It was pointed out that the removal of the financing clause left the state without funds even to set up the machinery for administration of the pension under the state welfare department at a later date.

The bill was an agreed measure introduced by Representatives William M. Goodwin, Democrat of Hamilton and Martin E. Blum, Republican of Cleveland. It would become effective in 1932.

The house taxation committee cleared its calendar for the end of the general session by killing an even dozen bills, reporting out two and referring 27 others and a resolution to the special joint committee on taxation for consideration.

The Ackerman senate bill to remove taxes and penalties on personal property from the delinquent list was recommended for passage.

Bills increasing the gasoline tax one cent, to permit payment of taxes on the installment plan, to reapportion gasoline tax receipts and to require consideration of tax valuation in fixing the value of utilities for rate making purposes were among those killed.

"In order to create the emergency atmosphere we are drafting the graduating class of the advanced flying school at Kelly field as well as calling national guard units to active duty. Planes will come from all parts of the country to be welded into the division organization.

Without the practical effort of the proposed mobilization, the assistant secretary asserted the air corps would lack definite knowledge of how a war-time air force should be operated. Beyond the actual fighting value of the planes, he said the exercises would for the first time demonstrate how far the air corps in its emergencies could depend upon municipal and commercial airports as war-time bases.

VOTERS REJECT "RARIN' JACK"

Walton Fails in Attempted Political Comeback at Oklahoma City.

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 8—Rejecting Rarin Jack Walton, Oklahoma city voters have placed the reins of city government in the hands of quiet spoken C. J. Blinn for the next four years.

Blinn, an attorney, has promised a house cleaning at the city hall and takes into office with him a complete ticket of anti-administration councilmen.

The former governor, impeached and ousted in 1923, was decisively beaten, a record ballot of 41,682 votes giving Blinn 25,375 to his 16,307. Walton 12 years ago this month won the office which was denied him yesterday. By a coincidence, William Hale Thompson was elected mayor of Chicago at the same time and yesterday also was defeated.

Always a fighter, Walton attempted a comeback by election to the United States senate in 1924, but was defeated by W. B. Pine, Republican.

By International News Service.

Ruhl, was confined to his cell at county jail today, awaiting his removal to Ohio penitentiary to begin a life sentence.

Hearing the shriek of his wife as the court told him he must spend the rest of his life in prison, Hafley attempted to rush to her side. Fighting mad when detectives and bailiffs blocked his way, the convicted man became hysterical and had to be carried out of the courtroom.

Hafley entered a plea of guilty to a blanket charge of homicide in the killing of Herman Jacobs, manager of a drug store where the convicted slayer formerly worked. Jacobs was killed last Dec. 15.

Thus the man who once said he would "bust King George of England on the snoot" greeted the result of the Democratic broom, which not only removed Thompson but apparently swept into the council chamber enough Democratic councilmen to give Cermak a working majority. The returns indicated the ratio would be 26 or more Democrats to 24 Republicans.

It was the second big victory for a Democrat within the last year, the other having been that of James Hamilton Lewis, elected to the United States senate last November over Ruth Anna McCormick, Republican nominee. There were those, however, who did not view Cermak's triumph as a partisan victory. Among them was Municipal Judge John H. Lyle, one of Thompson's opponents in the primary, who ran as an "anti-gang" candidate.

By The Associated Press

GALLIPOLIS, O., April 8—The remains of a father and his seven children who perished in flames were placed in one casket for burial today at the nearby Mercerville cemetery while the sole surviving son was near death.

Coroner Francis W. Shane said the fire apparently started when a coal dropped from a grate to the floor. George, 12, who escaped alive but is expected to die, said he leaped through a window and the only thing he saw was his father, with three-year-old girl twins under his arms, attempting to reach the window.

Former Maryland Senator First Out for Presidency

Joseph I. France Seeks Republican Nomination as Foe of Prohibition and Government Interference with Business.

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Md., April 8—Offering a platform opposing government interference with private business, repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and a concert of nations, former Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland, has announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for President of the United States. Today he made ready to file formal notice with the secretary of state at Annapolis and said he would enter the primaries in other states although he has as yet "no promises of support."

He said he was an anti-prohibition candidate in opposition to President Hoover.

Dr. France was in the United States senate from 1917 to 1923. He was one of the "irreconcilables" who opposed the entry of the country into the League of Nations. He was not in favor of the soldiers' bonus or of the four-power pact developing from the disarmament conference in Washington.

"The Eighteenth amendment," he said, in his platform, "is an important issue, but involves two paramount issues: shall we elect to the Presidency any man who can condone such a terrific blow at the very roots of constitutional government? Shall the people elect to the Presidency any man who has lacked the candor and the courage to state boldly and clearly where he stands upon this and every important issue of vital concern to the American people?"

Dr. France was born in Maryland in 1873. He is a physician.

SHOUSE OPENS 1932 CAMPAIGN

Launches Democratic Drive for President with First of Series of Talks.

By The Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 8—Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, formally opened the 1932 campaign of his party last night by laying the blame for the present economic and agricultural ills on the doorstep of the White House.

His address of a series west of the Mississippi did not include any mention of the prohibition issue.

The "nauseus Grundy dose" on tariff legislation and the "monumental failure" of the federal farm board came in for strong criticism from the Democratic leader.

"These two principles had so far fallen short of their intent as to win, not the applause, but the rebuke, of the entire nation," Shouse declared, pointing to the 1930 elections as evidence of the "distrust and dissatisfaction of the people" which has fallen upon the Hoover administration."

Unemployment, Shouse continued, has increased 149 percent during the last year and the only concrete legislation passed was two of three unemployment measures created by Senator Wagner, a Democrat, of New York.

Cooperative Marketing Is Lauded by Regent

By International News Service

BERKELEY, Cal.—The economic future of agriculture will depend largely upon the success of cooperative marketing.

This is the belief of Dr. C. C. Teague, member of the Federal Farm Board and Regent of the University of California.

The cooperative marketing movement, he says, aims to place the producer in a position to distribute his own products.

The opposition to this plan, he says, is composed of speculators and independent marketing concerns who see their business diminishing as cooperative marketing increases.

They are trying to discredit the Federal Farm Board or to secure repeal of the act which calls for cooperatives, Teague claims, but declares that the business of the Farm Board is to promote the business of the farmer.

OHIO FRUIT OUTLOOK BRIGHTEST IN YEARS

Ideal Spring Conditions Bring Prediction of Bumper Crop This Year.

By United Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 8 — A bumper fruit crop in Ohio this year was predicted in a statement issued today by E. A. Fleming, chief of the division of markets in the state department of agriculture.

"The recent rains accompanied by cool weather have brought about a condition which is not far from ideal as far as fruit prospects are concerned," Fleming said.

"At present the outlook for a bumper crop of apples, cherries, peaches, pears and small fruits seems assured. Unless the buds are killed by late frosts the apple crop will undoubtedly be one of the largest in many years.

"From reports being received it is reasonably safe to assume a very large acreage of potatoes will be planted. The same can also be said of tomatoes and cabbage.

"Large seed houses report an almost unprecedented demand for vegetable seeds which would indicate that if the season is at all favorable, more agricultural commodities will be grown in the state than have been produced for many years.

"If farmers carry out present intentions of increased plantings there can be little doubt but what the price of agricultural commodities will be exceedingly low."

The election to Phi Beta Kappa was based upon his pre-eminent scholastic attainments and marked success in later life.

VETOES MEASURE TO LICENSE EMBALMERS

White Hits Present Trend Toward State Regulation of Business.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 8—Governor White's veto axe, which he promised to use diligently, hand swung for the third time today, this time removing the bill to license embalmers and undertakers from further consideration as a new law.

The governor vetoed the measure late yesterday on the grounds it was "unnecessary" and that there was too great a trend toward regulation of business by the state.

Governor White at the same time announced that he had signed the Gillan-Roberts agreed bill for amendment of the state workmen's compensation law to permit payment of claims to persons afflicted with many occupational disease not recognized by the present code.

The business men of Managua refuse to be downed by the awful blow they have sustained, and the city is to be rebuilt. That's the vital spirit which makes a city more than a mere collection of business places and habitations.

"Gandhi To Visit America Soon," reads a headline over a story from New Delhi, India. If he plans to come over before early June it will show wisdom on his part to add at least a four-in-hand tie and a pair of spats to his regulation attire.

A section hand out at Henryetta, Oklahoma, has confessed that he caused a train wreck there last August in which thirteen persons were killed, because he wanted to get even with his boss for firing him. There are crimes for which boiling alive in oil would hardly be adequate punishment.

Word comes from Columbus that the members of the general assembly are "run ragged" by a horde of lobbyists, the most efficient of whom are those with a supply of good liquor. A story like that should be more explicit and state whether the "run raggedness" of our lawmakers was the result of running away from temptation or into it.

The mayoralty election up there being now a thing of the past, Chicagoans will probably be able to get something other than political propaganda out of their home papers, which should be welcomed by them as a positive relief.

The legislators of Delaware are working without pay, the constitution of that state providing that senators and representatives shall be paid for only sixty days of actual work. There's a constitutional provision which might profitably be adopted generally.

According to Lewis Gannett, "boredom is a modern invention." Maybe so, but we can go back an awfully long way and find references to yawns.

"Troops on Guard To Curb Riots at Holy Land Fetes," is the headline outlining a story from Jerusalem run by a city morning paper yesterday. It's a sad thought that the one land on the face of the globe which more than any other should enjoy peace and quiet has been for many centuries the theater of repeated wars, riots and bloodshed.

Hope for Franco-Italian Accord.

Despite the pessimistic reports of the last five or six days which have come out from London, Paris and Rome and semi-official reports from Washington, the latest Paris advices are to the effect that the French government is hopeful of naval accord with Italy.

For almost a week such headlines as "Franco-Italian Rift Imperils Prospect of Navy Agreement"—"Navy Hitch Serious, Washington Feels"—"France Blamed as Naval Pact Faces Failure" and "Washington Shows Alarm" have faced newspaper readers. And now Paris tells us that the French governmental authorities are confident that when the Franco-Italian naval negotiations are resumed in London next Tuesday an agreement will be reached on the issue of the replacement dates of the old tonnage of France which has been the stumbling block in the negotiations, an opinion utterly out of line with that of the French naval experts at the time the London negotiations were broken off.

The explanation offered for the hopeful view of the French governmental authorities is what the French government will do and what the French naval experts would do were the matter final with them are horses of an entirely different color, and it is for this reason that French official opinion is that there is a nine-to-one chance in favor of final agreement.

The French government, it is announced, is willing to abandon its plan to lay down new vessels in 1933 until 1935 and to hold up the building schedule, which would remove the major Italian objection that the termination of the Franco-Italian agreement in 1936 would find the French with a formidable array of new fighting units.

Throughout the drafting of the negotiations in London, the Italians are said to have made clear that, in entering the new understanding, they did so on the definite assurance that while France would have a "global superiority," Italy, by virtue of France's delayed replacement program, would have a superiority in new ships during the life of the agreement.

Thus the willingness of France to delay her building program and to retard work on it after it is undertaken meets the insistence of the Italian government that it must have naval superiority in the Mediterranean during the life of the accord for conceding to France worldwide superiority over Italy following the termination of the agreement in 1936, which is the date set for another general naval conference.

Senator Bingham's Idea.

The only way to curb excessive federal expenditures, Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, believes, is to make federal taxation so unpopular among all taxpaying classes that there will be a general demand for downward revision.

"If the people, through their representatives in congress, are going to demand larger and larger expenditures, leading to annual deficits, it seems to me that our policy should be to meet these demands with increased taxation. If the increased taxation is levied only on a relatively small part of the population and on the corporations, the demands for increased expenditure will continue to grow and the temptation to grant them will be increased. It would seem to me the part of wisdom to increase the taxation all along the line and to lower the brackets so as to increase very greatly the number of persons who realize that the federal government must raise its income from the taxpayers and does not manufacture money out of thin air," advises the senator, in what he tacitly admits is a desperate mood. He is a member of the senate finance committee, which bears a large portion of the responsibility of arranging government spending.

The proposal reflects more of the reasoning of an economist than a politician. Taxation talk at present among politicians is taken up largely with assurances that taxes will not be raised—not that the prospect of a huge peace-time deficit does not indicate a raise is necessary, but because it would not be expedient to talk tax raise with a presidential election in the offing.

This is foreign to good business sense, just as is the conception that money derived from taxing the very wealthy, and large corporations is "all velvet." As long as the conception continues, and as long as the inconspicuous taxpaper is not made to feel the effects of the expenditures he allows his representatives in congress to authorize, the federal deficit will grow. The small taxpayers fail to realize that by "soaking" the big taxpayers beyond all reason they are killing the goose that lays the golden eggs. They also fail to understand that they create more expense for themselves, because prices will be adjusted to meet the burden of taxation.

Convinced, apparently, that corporations and the very wealthy should contribute the bulk of federal taxation, congress listens to the demands of the majority unaffected by the federal tax burden, and sanctions unreasonable increases of federal expenses. The only way to change the tone of the majority would be to apply Senator Bingham's punitive proposal, but politicians never would dare sanction such a thing. So for the present, it will continue to be "each group of taxpayers for itself." As Senator Smoot succinctly observed, the cost of government is bound to increase each year. And the government will continue to tax most where there is the least resistance.

Victory for Civic Decency.

Felicitations are the due of the better element of Chicago's population which, regardless of political lines, went to the polls yesterday in anwer to the call for decency in city government.

William Hale Thompson, whose administrations have worked to make Chicago the target for nationwide criticism, was overwhelmingly defeated for mayor by Anton Joseph Cermak, Democratic party leader and serving his third term as president of the Cook county board of commissioners, the latter's majority being so large that he carried his three running-mates on the ticket with him to victory. This morning's unofficial figures show that he was elected by more than 190,000 majority, which tops by almost 45,000 any majority ever attained by a Chicago candidate for city office.

Viewed in the friendliest light possible, Mayor Thompson's three administrations must be recognized as having constituted a handicap such as no city can afford to suffer, much less a city soon to invite the world to come to a great exposition of progress such as Chicago is about to give. When the voters of the city repudiated Thompsonism yesterday, they removed the one great menace to the success of their coming world fair. The word having gone out that "Big Bill" Thompson is not to be the "world fair" mayor, that exposition is given a forward movement which it could not otherwise have possibly attained.

The Chicago election of Tuesday once more goes to prove that civic decency is always possible of attainment when the decent-minded citizens work as one to that end. The better element in the Windy City finally recognized the fact that it was responsible for the conditions existing there. It took years to bring it to appreciation of this fact, but finally realization came with the result herein set out.

Incidentally what the people of Chicago have done may be taken by the decent citizens of New York City as a promise of what they may do if they will forget politics and work as one man to wipe out the manifest corruption existing there.

New Zealand is considering a plan to cut the wages and salaries of her 80,000 state employes. Words would be useless in attempting to describe the wail which would go up were a plan like that proposed over here.

A proposal to restore the death penalty for first-degree murder has been defeated in Michigan by an estimated majority of 35,000, and the odd phase of the thing is that one of the arguments against the proposal was to redress murder by executing the murderer was not in accord with the teachings of Holy Writ.

From London to Cape Town by plane in six days and ten hours is the new mark set by Commander Glen Kidston, millionaire English sportsman, by which he clipped almost three days off the previous record. Special interest in the flight on this side of the Atlantic is aroused by the fact that Commander Kidston attributes the success of his flight to his Lockheed Vega monoplane, which was imported from America for the flight. And thus passes another in the long chain of broken aviation records.

WARNING OF EARTHQUAKES.

The brief dispatch from Philadelphia quoting Captain Nicholas Heck, of the United States coast and geodetic survey, about new instruments to give warning of earthquakes an hour or two in advance of their occurrence is especially opportune. Such a warning of the Managua disaster would have saved hundreds of lives and might have permitted precautions adequate to save millions of dollars in property. The instruments to which Captain Heck referred in his recent discussion of earthquake studies before the Franklin institute are admittedly not yet finished or proven. They do promise, however, significant progress in one of the two ways that have been thought of for earthquake prediction. This is the detection of minor earth tremors which some seismologists believe to herald the majority of greater shocks.

This would give but a few hours' warning of a quake, and it is improbable that the exact location of the quake's center could be determined. Yet the method would be of inestimable value even were it occasionally wrong were it necessary to prepare over a wide area for a shock which might prove dangerous, when it came, to only a part of that area. The other method of earthquake prediction imagined by the experts would be in some degree a supplement to this one. It is the hope of discovering the particular earth forces which touch off the quakes and of predicting when these trigger actions will occur.

The fundamental cause of earthquakes is believed to be stress which accumulates slowly in the earth's crust; prhaps as a result of the globe's contraction, perhaps from some other cause. Such stresses are modified from hour to hour by slighter forces superposed on them; the tidal pulls of the moon, for example, or the variations of air pressure due to weather or the shifting weight of ocean waters moved by storms or tides. These slight forces themselves cause no earthquakes, but they are the straws which overload the camel's back and touch off shocks almost ready to occur anyway as a result of the slow gathering of greater forces in the crust. This is why the numbers of earthquakes an hour or a day show periodic variations agreeing with moon, tides, weather and similar things. Were all these forces, great and small, well enough understood to be predicted, the times of major earth shocks might be foreseen with some accuracy. Meanwhile, study of the tinier earth tremors probably would help, as Captain Heck describes, to locate the spots where the greater earth forces were piling up dangerously. Both methods of prediction may cooperate, therefore, in the future science of making impossible sudden disasters like that in Nicaragua.—New York Herald Tribune.

UP TO WOMEN.

A suggestion comes from Havana that American prosperity would quickly return if the eighteenth amendment were repealed and if women stopped dieting and wore more clothes. The first suggestion is too highly controversial to be discussed offhand. But there is no doubt that more food would be sold if more food were eaten, and more clothes would also be sold if more clothes were worn. The effect on prosperity remains to some extent a matter of speculation. Indiscriminate dieting is not to be commended. Yet Americans in general are disposed to eat too much rather than too little. Three heavy meals a day are not needed save by those engaged in hard physical labor, and not always then. The Italians, for example, have plenty of stamina without them.

As for clothes, it is generally agreed, by doctors among others, that the present fashions for women are preferable to those they succeeded. In a climate like ours, where sudden changes of temperature are to be expected, a moderate exposure of the body is better than "bundling up." Of course, it is to a great extent a matter of habit. But the health of the race is not apparently seriously impaired when men abandon thick flannels and women heavy petticoats and high-necked dresses. The real hope of clothing manufacturers seems to lie in frequent changes of fashion, while purveyors of food benefit by greater variety of fare.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Acidosis Indicated by Disease.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

One of the chief functions of the body is to keep the blood alkaline. To accomplish this nature provides certain chemical substances. These substances are sometimes called "alkaline buffers." They may be thrown into the blood stream at any time to neutralize acids formed by the body.

When excessive acid productions is the rule, the buffer substances are exhausted. We then have the conditions spoken of as "acidosis," or "acid intoxication."

A person suffering with acidosis complains of difficulty in breathing. This is frequently called air hunger, because of the difficulty in getting sufficient air.

The breath has a sweet, fruity smell. Urinalysis shows an excess of certain chemicals.

Acidosis is not a disease. It is merely a sign or symptom of disease. It may occur in many diseases.

Starvation may result in acidosis. This condition was frequently seen in Europe during the World war.

The acidosis seen in diabetics is a serious condition. In this disease the fats and carbohydrates are not properly used by the body. The formation of excessive amounts of acid in this condition may lead to coma, or loss of consciousness. Coma is a condition demanding immediate medical attention.

Acidosis is found in certain heart and kidney conditions. The acidosis in these conditions is usually due to an inability of the kidney to dispose of acids.

Children with severe diarrheal diseases often show marked signs of acidosis. Stomachs are upset periodically—a common ailment in children frequently associated with acidosis.

In all cases of acidosis or acid intoxication, the treatment is essentially the treatment of the underlying cause. These persons must be properly fed.

If no sickness at the stomach is present, the attending doctor will probably give peptonized milk, oatmeal, gruel, porridge, bread rice and tapioca pudding and orange juice. From time to time, the physician will indicate changes in the diet.

For the upset stomach, sips of warm water, carbonated water or barley water may help. As soon as milk or orange juice can be retained it is best to give it.

Starvation and undernourishment must be avoided. However, it is wise not to force food when it is not retained. In general, the doctor will reduce the fats and acid forming substances in the diet.

The Dirigible's Future.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

One of the greatest airships ever built was the British R-101. It was 777 feet in length, diameter 131 feet and eight inches, height 140 feet, and capacity 5,500,000 cubic feet. Yet the horrible disaster, the complete destruction of this mighty flier with the loss of many lives, on October 5 last, once again raises a huge question mark over the future of the airship. In his latter years, Count Zeppelin frankly acknowledged the failure of the dirigible as a weapon of war. And the loss of the R-101 inclines many engineers and government authorities to doubt the availability of the airship in times of peace.

It is always a very hazardous proceeding to prophesy regarding the future of an invention, in the early stages of its development. Two decades ago, the gravest doubts were entertained regarding the future of the airplane, which seems absurd enough in the light of unparalleled subsequent developments. Some time ago, the late Lord Thomas wrote:

"It is not twenty years since the first lord of the British admiralty rejected proposals made by Wilbur and Orville Wright in the following terms: 'I have consulted by expert advisers with regard to your suggestion as to the employment of aeroplanes, and I regret to have to tell you....that the admiralty.... are of the opinion that they would not be of any practical service to the naval service.' This reply represented the attitude of the British naval and, although to a less degree, the military authorities toward aviation seven years before the World war."

The dirigible has been definitely discarded for military purposes, it would appear, because of its unwieldiness and great bulk, which make it too vulnerable to attack by the airplane. The Germans used it with some effect for raiding purposes during the World war. But for the last eighteen months of the war, the airship was given up for raiding purposes in favor of the airplane.

There can be little doubt that the dirigible still has a future for naval purposes. It would serve as the "eyes and ears" of the navy of any nation, in making long scouting expeditions over great bodies of water like the Atlantic and Pacific. Even then it operates under very severe handicaps. Huge mooring masts and sheds must be provided in advance; they can not be improvised on short notice. A mast costs $350,000, and a hangar $1,250,000. And this over and above the most of the airship itself, which is an immense sum, running up high into the millions.

The risks in airship construction are very grave. Airships have to be thoroughly tried out and tested; and the dangers here are always great. Then there is the risk of a vast outlay of capital; the cost of the ship, sheds, machinery, gas plants, and labor. A team of 200 men is required to get an airship of the bulk of the R-101 in and out of her shed. No private firm or corporation will undertake all these vast risks, financial, commercial, and technical. It is now entirely left to the governments of the world to determine the future of the dirigible. There seems no reason to doubt that the airship has a future for scouting and exploratory purposes. Its costs and dangers must both be greatly lessened, to assure the airship's future in world traffic and transportation.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Mexico's Drinking Center.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Like the World war, prohibition has been blamed and credited for almost everything. Among the curious effects of the American law against drinking is the making of the metropolis of Juarez, Mexico, right across the international border between the United States and Mexico.

Until the advent of the dry law, Juarez was a town of 10,000—today it boasts over four times that number of inhabitants. Juarez is about 300 years old and its booming and startling growth during the past decade is indisputably the fruit of the American prohibition law.

Today Juarez has street after street of saloons and cabarets, two breweries and three distilleries. Six blocks of famous "Sixteenth of September" streets contain little else besides bars and they are well patronized.

Curiously enough this city has little besides bars and cabarets to offer the tourist. The only gambling permitted by the authorities is the national lottery and keno. Its celebrated race track has been closed for four years and the famous Tivoli for two. The Tivoli was once known as the home of the wildest gambling scenes in North America.

However, there remain thrills for twentieth century D'Artagnans, and adventure is there for those who seek it. It is a curious commentary on the Mexican character that in this free-and-easy city, it is illegal for a man to kiss a woman on the street even though she be his wife. If a policeman sees you committing this offense you are likely to be cast into jail.

Bridges connect El Paso and Juarez. Automobiles are charged a twenty-five cent toll and pedestrians two cents. Midnight is the closing hour for these bridges and if you want to sleep in the "States" that night you must leave the gay resorts of Juarez before that hour.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, April 8—The telephone company is arranging to have all its time-of-day services broadcast by one person from a glass booth. This caller will merely announce the precise time every ten seconds. Those who call in for the exact o'clock not have to wait any longer than that at most.

Correct time appears to mean more to hurrying New Yorkers than people anywhere in the world. It is estimated that 300,000 persons daily either ask their own switchboard operators or those attached to the telephone company for the time of day or night.

Most of the newer hotels and many modern office buildings have an electrical clock in each room and in elevators. In one square on Broadway there are nine curb clocks. In Times square are eighteen horological devices. Fifth avenue averages a sidewalk clock to every three blocks.

In mid-town one may look out almost any window and see a clock. There are in the greater city 112 large electrically-lighted clocks. Electric beacons flash quarter hours from several towers. And the largest clock in the world is on the Jersey side of the Hudson river.

Big jewelry establishments say they will average fifty people a day who drop in to find out the exact time. Of course, the large number of commuters who arrive and depart daily for their suburban homes play a big part in this clock consciousness.

The telephone company has for years maintained a time service department. By dropping a nickel in the slot and asking for Meridian 7-1212 one may learn not only the exact hour, but the exact minute. The average number of calls here is about 50,000.

In this department are twenty operators by day and four after 2 a. m. Oddly enough, gamblers are the most insistent in demands for the exact hour. Around 7 in the evening women lead in inquiring the time. It is the hour when husbands begin showing up late for dinner.

• • •

New York telephones, incidentally, will be completely dialed in seven years. Thus will the public lose contact with about the cheeriest of all employes—the telephone operators. There may be grouchy ones, but I have yet to run across one. And while it has nothing to do with telephone service I just happened to think any one wanting my cement stock is welcome.

Two days later Towne's friend Walter Hale, about whom he had been worrying, passed away. Towne was wearing a Palm Beach suit. And that's why he still looks startled.

General Cowen, "Trouble-Shooter."

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Most large employing concerns, especially those engaged in public utility work, have in their service some one who is known as a "trouble shooter." Wherever there is a development of friction in the company's public relations, or some hostility has been caused by unwise acts on the part of a local executive, the "trouble-shooter" is sent to straighten things out.

If there had been such a term in use in the decade immediately following the Civil war it would certainly have been applied to General B. R. Cowen, who had served both the state and nation in civil and military capacities, and who in those services had inspired those about him with his remarkable tact, good judgment and affability.

Many commissions of special services were given him by President Grant. One of the first was to go into the upper Missouri valley and the Yellowstone country in 1872, to visit the Indians there. The route for the Northern Pacific railroad was being selected and the Indians were known not to look with favor upon the enterprise. The President's commission to him read "to amuse Sitting Bull while the Northern Pacific railroad engineers made their reconnaissance up the Yellowstone."

The next year he was sent into northern California to induce the warlike Modocs to move upon a new reservation outside of Roseburg Valley, their old home. The next year he was detailed to visit New Orleans, where bloody race riots had occurred, his orders being to "go secretly and find out who is to blame."

Immediately afterward, he was sent to Utah where the Mormons had been aroused by the action of a federal judge in punishing Brigham Young for regusing to pay alimony to one of his wives whom he divorced. General Grant's orders were this time to "find out what is the matter with the Mormons." One of his many western missions took him with the exploring party for the Yellowstone country, and he was materially influenced in securing the passage of the bill creating the national park. General Cowen was born at Moorfield, Harrison county, Ohio, August 15, 1831, and died at Cincinnati January 29, 1908.

FIRST MARION BUSINESS WOMAN STILL LEADER

Miss Laura Bowen Rises to Executive Position in Local Industry

BY HALLIE HOUCK

P[illegible] in womanhood and the [illegible] women have made for [illegible]es in the business and in[illegible] fields of today, prompted [illegible]ura Bowen of 141 South [illegible]eet to grant an interview [illegible]ve of her forty-fifth year [illegible]e in the offices of the [illegible]g. Co. She is now cashier [illegible] assistant secretary of the company.

Miss Bowen, whose family is one of the oldest in Marion is a pioneer actually and at heart. She was one of the few girls in Marion to enter the business world 45 years ago, and with her alert, quick intelligence, she has observed the march of women to the fore during that period.

It is almost exultantly that she speaks of women and their responsibility and invaluableness to modern business. An Empress of China discovered the possibilities of the silk worm, not a man, she points out.

• • •

THE advent of the loose-leaf ledger is one of the big forward strides in offices today, she believes. When Miss Bowen first went with the Huber Co., in offices opposite the plant which was then located in the building now occupied by the Houghton Sulky Co. at 185 North State street, there were telephones and typewriters, but no dictaphones, comptometers, or other mechanical equipment to speed office work.

As head bookkeeper, Miss Bowen was one of three persons employed. Miss Jennie Gibbs, who will be remembered by many here and is now married and living in Wilmington, Del., and S. E. Barlow, then in the office of treasurer, made up the office force. Now the company employs approximately 30 in its offices.

The old bound ledgers slowed up office work considerably. Only one person could work on the books at a time, an inconvenience that often was responsible for overtime work on the part of the bookkeeper. The loose-leaf ledger has done away with all of that.

In the 45 years Miss Bowen has been with the company her vacations, with the exception of weekends, have consisted of two months in California, three months abroad, one month in Washington, D. C., and one month in New York.

• • •

SHE is interested in her work, to the extent that vacationing doesn't appeal to her. She has watched the company develop from the manufacture of simple farm implements, to grain separators and today, great road rollers, tractors and threshing machines. And having "grown up with the business," its interests are of vital importance to her.

In her present capacity, it is her responsibility to handle the money of the large company. Her years with the company have been almost equally divided between the positions of head bookkeeper and cashier.

Miss Bowen belongs to several study clubs in Marion which she thoroughly enjoys. She is a lover of Dickens especially and the classics in general, and feels that unless the best books are read, the time spent is wasted, when there is so much else of value that might be accomplished. She is an ardent student of human character and likes nothing more than meeting and knowing new personalities.

After talking with her, there is a feeling that she was one of the most ardent supporters for women's suffrage and any other movement tending to give the feminine of the world their just and earned place in the economic life of today.

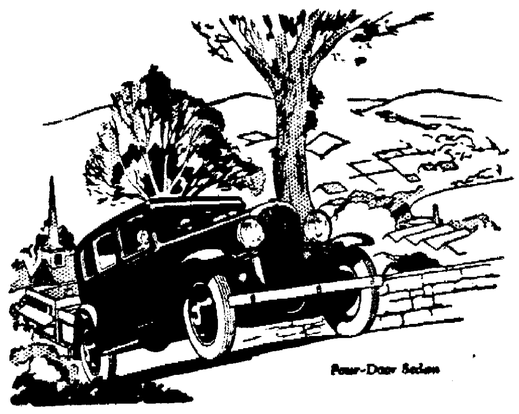
DRIVE THE NEW OLDSMOBILE • IT'S A GREAT ALL-ROUND PERFORMER



Four-Door Sedan

The new Oldsmobile is an unusually satisfactory car to drive because of its abilities in every phase of performance. It is easy to start—summer or winter. It accelerates swiftly and smoothly. And it gives you command of unusual speed—with stamina to hold it.

This finer all-round performance is the result of a number of important new Oldsmobile features. Chief among these is new down-draft carburetion . . . the source of increased power—with higher speed, faster acceleration, and greater smoothness. This feature also assures instantaneous starting, even at zero temperature. And a newly-designed crankshaft-balancer and a new carburetor-silencer give unusual smoothness and quietness of operation at all speeds.

Each of these features is important. But more important still is another new Oldsmobile feature—the famous Syncro-Mesh transmission. This transmission, heretofore found only in higher-priced cars, enables you to enjoy Oldsmobile's performance to the fullest extent. You can shift through all gears . . . from low into second and from second to high . . . quickly, easily, and silently, without fear of gear-clashing. Further, you can shift from high back to second with equal facility, and without reducing car speed. This feature is particularly desirable when driving in traffic or on steep grades.

In addition, and giving the car extra performance advantages, Oldsmobile has added to the Syncro-Mesh transmission a new Quiet Second Gear . . . assuring smooth, swift acceleration which rivals high-gear performance in quietness.

These many added features make the new Oldsmobile a great car to drive . . . fast, smooth, rugged, and powerful . . . as you will quickly discover when you take the wheel and test the car.

Junior Was Too Wise

"What are you going to do with us, Mama? Do we get a smack...?"

There was distinct hopefulness in the latter query, and I lowered my face over the desk to hide a smile. It has been a long time since Junior has had a "smacking"—as he calls the mild switchings I used to administer in those days of early childhood, when, in common with young puppies, physical discomfort is sometimes the most effective punishment. But I have a theory that to continue switchings after children reach an age when they are able to reason is a serious mistake. If they have not been trained to obedience from infancy, corporal punishment is not the remedy.

I had a vivid remembrance of the last time I had administered a "smacking" to Junior. He had made an inordinate fuss over it and inadvertently I had heard him confiding to Katie a little later.

"You know, Katie" he had said, "if you just get near the table and stick your legs against the drape, you hardly feel the switching. Then if you yell like the dickens, Mums stops."

At first I had been so chagrined that it took all my self-control to keep from yanking the young man out of the kitchen and administering the real switching, which he patently needed. Then, the reaction had come, and I had leaned against the door jamb in a paroxysm of silent laughter.

I had not administered a switching since that day. The time had come for other measures. I had decided, and since then my young son's punishments had consisted for the most part of being sent to bed to think things over, the length of his stay depending upon the seriousness of his transgression, and of being deprived of some pleasure upon which he had counted.

I had soon found out that he infinitely preferred "smackings" to almost any other form of punishment. He never asked for them, but almost invariably when he knew that he was what Dicky called "in Dutch with the powers that be," he asked hopefully as he just had done, if he were going to have one.

"No, you are too old for smackings," I said when I could present a sober face to them." Only small puppies and children too young to know what they are doing, have to be smacked."

"Well, what are you going to do with us, then?" Junior persisted, disappointment and apprehension in his tone.

"I haven't quite decided what to do with you," I told them. "I was too astonished at what you were doing when I came in. You were both equally bad, you know. Junior for attempting to hit Roderick——"

"But I didn't hit him," my young son protested. I looked at him steadily and he reddened.

"Because I collared you in time," I said, and turned to Roderick. "And Roderick for yelling 'brat' at the top of his voice," I went on, and our young nephew started violently. I fathomed his mental processes with a mental grin. He had supposed that I had thought him fighting with Junior, and was prepared to deny the accusation indignantly when I should tax him with it. Until this moment he had had no idea that I had heard the taunting words which he had hurled at Junior.

"But I didn't mean to call the baby that, honest," he said.

Needed a Little Uneasiness

"Well, if you didn't, I didn't mean to hit you, either," Junior announced, adding truculently, "but if anybody thinks he can get away with calling my baby names he'd better have another think coming."

I seized the opening for excusing them, for which I had been secretly hoping. But they needed a little uneasiness first, I decided.

"Of course, I can put you to bed and have your dinners sent up on a tray——" I said as if to myself.

"Oh-h!" The wail came simultaneously from both pair of lips. "Hank and Bill are coming home before dinner."

FOR ANY CHILD

CHILDREN are happy and carefree by nature, so when they cry for no apparent reason any careful mother worries. No one can always guess just what is wrong but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as baby has a fretful spell, is feverish and cross and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes it is constipation. Just keep Castoria handy and give freely for any of the above conditions; relief will follow promptly.

All through babyhood, Castoria is a mother's standby, and wise mothers do not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Just increase the dose of Castoria and keep the youngster's stomach sweet and the bowels in good order.

Jubilee's Pardner

• • •

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

—BY JUDD M. LEWIS—

WEDNESDAY. It was thundering when I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth, and the sky looked like rain, but a fella don't get let stay out of school because it rains, so I didn't care if it rained or not. It always rains in April. My grandfather says it rains because he wants to go fishing and the rain makes the water muddy so he can't catch anything. He said any time he wants it to rain all he has to do is to stick his fishpole out of the door and it will begin to rain. I thought he was spoofing, so I got up and snuck out in the kitchen and got his fishpole and stuck it out of the kitchen door, and the rain came down like a cloud had busted. I can't tell when my grandfather is a lire and when he ain't.

When I went back and sot down to finish my breakfast my father asted me what I had been doing and when I told him they all laughed, and my ant said, "Beautiful but dumb!" I said, "That would be only half right if I said it about you," and my father looked at me and began to get up and I thought I was going to get mine, but my mother looked at him and said: "She started it," so he sot down again.

My unkle took another egg and some bacon and some more pancakes and my mother asted him if he was going to get paid Saturday, and he said, "Anyone would think you begretch me everything I eat," and she said, "I do, and your silk underware too," so I went out and got the bunch and skun out to play till schooltime.

In recess Youniss asted me if I was going to make her a willow whistle this year, so after school we went out to the willows and I made her one and we all made some and played traffic cops like they are in the city, and when it was the Lost Bag of Tripe's turn to be it we all made out like we didn't hear his whistle and we ran over him and knocked him down. It wasn't so muddy that he needed to get sore about it, but he got up feeling of the wet seat of his pants with one hand and grabbed Feeble's whistle with the other and twisted it so he busted the bark and it was no good, and we grabbed him before he could skin out and made him give her his whistle, and then he started home bellering, and Feeble ran after him to give him his whistle back and he turned and slapped her face and shun out. She made out like he had knocked her eyes crooked and she couldn't get them straight again. She said she would get even with him and when Youniss asted her how she said she didn't know whether to marry him or kill him. Maggie said to marry him and he would suffer longest, so we all hoorawed her, and she made out like she was crying and I thought she was and put my arm around her and said we were only joking. Then she grinned at me and said Youniss was sure. I don't like women.

CHAPTER 33

Cautious Guards

AT 10 o'clock at night Murphy passed my cell door and heard heart-rending groans that he expected to hear. Supposing (as he stated, in evidence, later) that the occupant of the cell had attempted suicide or was dying, he unlocked the door and stepped inside.

Instantly an automatic pistol appeared in front of his face and a grim voice said: "Put 'em up."

As he did so, the voice continued:

"Here's where I die—after I've killed you — or else I make my getaway. Strip!" And Guard Murphy pretended that he was trapped, and that unless he instantly obeyed every order of this desperate criminal, he would be a dead man.

"Quick," I growled. "Cap, trousers, everything . . . If I get clear you'll never need to work again."

"I'm trusting ye," whispered Guard Murphy.

"I'm trusting you too, Murphy," I said, "but turn to me and cross your wrists behind you. I shall only want one hand and my teeth for the job, and my other hand will be holding the gun against your liver."

In about three minutes Murphy's uniform, boots, cap and belt were on the floor of the cell, and his hands were bound together behind him, and I could now lay the pistol aside. In another minute his feet were tied together.

Having gaged him I dressed myself as a guard, and, taking his keys, opened the door, stepped out into the corridor, and locked the door behind me.

I was free—inside the prison, and if every man reacted correctly to my suddenly presented pistol, there was a chance that I should be free outside it too.

Assuming the attitude of a guard on duty, I tramped down the corridor toward the watchman who, as I knew, would be outside the big common cell known for some reason as The Fort.

If the watchman took no notice of me, as was quite likely in that dim light, I would pass on.

As I passed him the watchman looked up.

"Say, Patsy," he said, and then his eyes and mouth opened wider. "What the . . ."

"Stick 'em up!" I growled "Quick!" and his hands shot up as high as he could put them.

I took his pistol.

"Unlock the door and get inside, quick," I said.

The watchman opened that four-inch iron door more quickly than usual, and went into the Fort as though it was his home. It was—for quite a little while.

Like Guard Murphy he was safely out of action until some one other than myself was in possession of the big key which I turned and withdrew from the lock. The watchman had done me splendid service by recognising me and causing me to drive him into the cell, for he had provided a perfect solution of the greater part of my problem.

Whither the watchman had gone his comrades should go—every guard, watchman, trusty, or other official who recognized me or showed suspicion.

That big cell, I realized, had no windows in the ordinary sense of the world. There would be no audible cry for help from the Fort.

Proceeding on my way toward the warden's office, I emerged into the blessed fresh air of the dark night, and marched boldly across the bare, inner quadrangle which was the convict's exercise ground, to where a guard stood sentinel beneath a lamp.

As I approached him at an angle, whistling an Irish air which was a favorite with Murphy, I got within arm's length of the sentry without his taking the slightest notice of me, and, with a lightning grab, I disarmed him, at the same time growling, with as sinister a scowl as I could achieve: "Hands up! . . Quick!"

Up went the guard's hands, for life was as dear to him as to most of us.

Within a minute I had shepherded my victim to the Fort door, and made him open it and enter.

The look of disappointment on the imprisoned watchman's face as he saw two automatics and the guard, instead of release was ludicrous.

"Don't either of you be near the door, next time it opens," I said. "I may get mad and make a real killing."

The door closed gently, and again I locked it and withdrew the key.

Thrice I repeated this process, and each time the proceedings passed off without a hitch.

It was unbelievably easy—owing to the fact, that being in the uniform of a guard, I was able to present a pistol at my victim before he had the faintest idea of anything being wrong.

It was of pleasant interest to me to notice that, on each occasion, the heavy iron door of the Fort opened upon silence and apparent emptiness.

The men within knew that, certainly two, and probably four, would be killed before their concerted rush could get at me.

It was in almost a state of exhilaration, that I, coolly, swiftly, and in business-like manner, went about my affair until, one by one, I had captured every single guard inside the prison.

It was, of course, my good fortune and a weakness in the prison system that, in no case was one guard in actual sight of another. But for this I could hardly have succeeded.

Having safely disposed of all the inner guards, I now turned to the more dangerous task of dealing with the warden's office staff—if any were still on duty—and the outer guard at the prison gates.

Tramping heavily, whistling, and jangling my keys, I marched up to the door of the office, threw it open, tramped in, with all the assurance of the warden himself, closed the door, and saw that the only occupant of the room was the prison bookkeeper—who stared at me in amazement.

He stared harder, with yet more amazement, as a big automatic appeared a foot from his face, and the unknown guard gave the peremptory order:

"Signal the outer guard to open the prison gates!"

"You win," he smiled, came round the desk as if to pass me, suddenly struck the pistol from my hand, and sprang on me like a tiger.

But he was fighting for his duty, whereas I was fighting for my life and the punishment of Rosemary's murderers—and, before long, I was on top, with my hands like a vise on his throat.

When his face was beginning to turn purple, I suddenly released my grip with one hand, drew another pistol from my pocket, and held it to his face.

"Do we both die?" I growled.

"No," he wheezed. "You win."

"Get up and give the signal to the outer guard at the gates," I ordered.

Staggering to his feet, the clerk went over to the bell-pull, two pistols threatening him from behind. I certainly wasn't going to shoot him, but he didn't know that.

"Don't give the wrong signal," I said, "unless you're really tired of life."

But I saw a triumphant thought flash through his mind. He would give the signal, and, as soon as the inner gate was opened, and I marched out of the room to escape, he would give the alarm to the guard at the gate when I was halfway there.

"I'll give the right signal," he answered me, and did so.

As he turned to me with a smile, I swiftly struck him a crashing blow on the point of the jaw with my right fist, in which I held the heavy pistol by the middle, as one does a dumb-bell.

He crumpled up without a sound.

To Be Continued.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he sure to patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.
